DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action is in response to the preliminary amendment filed on 13 May 2005. Claim 20 is cancelled. Claims 1-19 are pending.

It is noted that the recitations of the "first" and the "second" expression cassettes are swapped in claims 8-12 when compared to claim 1. Correction is required.

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. §121 and §372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claims 1-17, drawn to the special technical feature of a polynucleotide vaccine comprising in cis a first expression cassette encoding an HCV core protein downstream from a second expression cassette encoding at least one other HCV protein.

Group II, claims 18 and 19, drawn to the special technical feature of a method of preventing or treating an HCV infection in a mammal comprising administering the polynucleotide vaccine.

The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

As set forth above, each Group requires a special technical feature that is not required by any of the other groups. Therefore, the Inventions lack the same special technical feature.

The special technical feature of Group I is a polynucleotide comprising in cis a first expression cassette encoding an HCV core protein downstream from a second expression cassette encoding at least one other HCV protein. Such a product is disclosed by the Shah patent, US 6,727,092 B2, which teaches a plasmid containing a bacterial codon-optimized sequence of amino acids 1192-1457 (representing a segment of NS3), followed by amino acids 1-150 (representing a segment of core protein) from the H strain of HCV, with two non-HCV coding amino acids separating the two sequences. See column 17, line 15-19. Therefore, the technical feature is not a contribution over the art, thus, the claimed invention cannot be said to have unity of invention.

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

I. Applicants are required to elect one species of the protein encoded by the first expression cassette from the following:

- (a) amino acids 1-151 of HCV core protein (claims 6 and 17);
- (b) amino acids 1-165 of HCV core protein (claims 7 and 17);
- (c) amino acids 1-171 of HCV core protein (claim 17);
- (d) HCV NS3-core fusion protein (claims 9 and 10);
- (e) HCV NS3-core(1-151) fusion protein (claim 11);
- (f) HCV NS3-core(1-165) fusion protein (claims 11 and 12); and
- (g) HCV NS3-core(1-171) fusion protein (claim 11);

II. Applicants are required to elect one species of the protein encoded by the second expression cassette from the following:

- (1) NS3 (claim 13);
- (2) NS4B (claim 13);
- (3) NS5B (claims 8 and 13); and

(4) NS4B-NS5B fusion protein (claim 10).

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The following claim(s) are generic: 1-8 and 11-19.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the same reasons set forth above.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. §103(a) of the other invention.

The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and the product claims are subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be considered for rejoinder. All claims directed to a nonelected process invention must require all the limitations of an allowable product claim for that process invention to be rejoined.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. §101, 102, 103 and 112. Until all claims to the elected product are found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowable product claim will not be rejoined. See MPEP § 821.04(b). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to require the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder.

Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. §121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
